

Projects and Publications Updates

The Learning Patient-Centered Outcomes Research (PCOR) System The First Six Months - Planning the Deliberative Engagement Sessions

Team members have worked with the Stakeholder Advisory Board (SAB) members to make a list of possible engagement receptor sites.

This list has about 25 organizations and individuals who were ongoing PCOR studies supported by The PATIENTS Program, locations where one may find patient advisors, health care providers with PCOR or CER experience, and policymakers who have shown they want to look at health disparities and impacting policy at the local and state levels.

Each member of the SAB then ranked each organization as a high priority or low priority engagement receptor site. The project team then took the results and the potential sites with the highest priority marks were asked to take part as official engagement receptor sites.

The PATIENTS Program will put on four, half-day sessions at and with our Engagement Receptor Sites. Each session will have 25 people from the following groups of stakeholders and/or partners: patient advisors, patient stakeholders, researchers, policymakers, and health care providers. The four sessions are based on the 10-Step Framework developed by The PATIENTS Program.

